

William Holmes

Bill is the Director, International Data Management. He is responsible for planning, developing, directing, and implementing comprehensive Service-wide international data strategies, including inbound and outbound through the Foreign Account Transaction Compliance Act (FATCA) and Exchange of Information program, that enhance compliance with international tax laws, ensure consistency in taxpayer treatment, and effectively allocate resources to meet Service-wide international tax administration priorities. He provides executive level leadership in directing projects under the international data strategies, ensuring their successful development and implementation.

Bill began his career in 1991 as a Revenue Officer in Augusta, GA. He has held a variety of executive positions since graduating the IRS Executive Development Program in 2003, including Compliance Campus Director, Field Compliance Director, Collection Planning and Analysis Director and Project Director, Data Strategy. He was also responsible for the development and implementation of the current IRS Strategic Plan. Bill has a BBA in Economics/Finance from Augusta State University, Masters Certificates in both Project and Program Management, holds the Project Management Professional certification, and completed an Executive Fellowship at Harvard University.
